

HOW TO TAKE PART IN ONLINE LIVE

A Guide for Employers and Apprentices

What is Online Live?

Online Live training offers the same, real time training our employers and learners expect but with a digital edge. By offering a cost effective, proven alternative to traditional classroom training, our learners are immersed in the digital world where they live most.

Why Online Live?

Baltic are a future focused, cyber-centric apprenticeship provider. It was the natural next step to move our training delivery online and embrace the technology we teach. We use tech to teach tech, change minds and change lives.

What To Do

Ensure you have a good internet connection and can access to the online classroom in good time

Train in a quiet and calm working environment without distractions

Ensure your headset works and you can interact with the classroom clearly. Please tell us if you are having problems

What Not To Do

Do not leave connecting to the classroom until the last minute as any late attendees can delay the training

Play music or have other distracting noises in the background. This can disrupt the training for both the trainer and other learner's

Do not use your mobile phone at any time other than designated break times, this will distract you from your training.

TOP TIP for Employers

If you have a learner who is attending their training from the office, please offer them a quiet place to work without distraction and do not give them any extra work to do. Our learners can also attend their training from home with your permission.
